THE ARTISTS ROOM AT KINGS PLACE WITH RENELL SHAW

Musicality. Identity. Direction.

Masterclass overview

The Artists Room is a masterclass exploring what it means to build a life in music with clarity and intention. Through honest conversation, musical insight and real industry perspective, artists are invited to define their sound, strengthen their musical identity and consider practical next steps for a sustainable creative path. This is a space for reflection, challenge and direction rather than formulas or guarantees.

Who Is It For?

- Songwriters, composers, musicians and producers at any stage of their journey.
- There will be two separate masterclass groups, depending on your age, so please make sure you sign up for the correct one. The groups will be split into:
 - Young Artists Edition 16-18: Ages 16-18.
 - Open Room 18 Plus: Ages above 18 so 19 onwards.

90 York Way, King's Cross, London

Where Artists step back to understand how to move forward.

What Will We Explore?

- A deeper understanding of what draws you towards music professionally and how to articulate it
- Insight into music industry practices, etiquette and creative responsibility
- Greater clarity around defining, protecting and developing your own sound
- Practical ways to stay connected to musicality in a culture driven by metrics
- New perspectives on songwriting and what gives music lasting impact
- Awareness of the social and cultural role artists play beyond entertainment
- A grounded view of how creative work can translate into income and sustainability
- Recognition of the value writers and creators hold within the wider industry
- Clear next steps to explore once motivation and direction begin to take shape
